- Founded 1873
- Independently governed by a board of trustees
- Offers degrees at the Baccalaureate, Masters and Ph.D. levels
- Suburban campus of 260 acres in a residential neighborhood, four miles from downtown and 35 miles from Dallas
- Mary Couts Burnett Library is fully computerized, open-stack facility housing 2 million items.
- Enrollment Fall 2005

Total University	8,668	Total Undergraduate	7,382
Full-time Undergraduate	7,049	Entering Freshmen	1,644
Entering Transfers	414
- 41% male, 59% female in student body (Freshmen: 41% male, 59% female)
NOTE: National average is 46% male, 54% female. Percentage of females in private schools is higher.
- For Fall 2007, TCU considered 11,888 freshman applicants and 1,622 transfer applicants. 48.9% of freshmen applicants were admitted.
- In the freshman class, mid-50% of students presented SAT scores in the range of 1620-1860, ACT scores in the range of 23-28.
- About 32% of entering freshman ranked in the top 10% of their class, while about 53% ranked in the top 20%
- 24.8% of TCU students come from outside the state.
- Almost every state in the U.S. is represented in the student body; Arkansas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico and Oklahoma are particularly well represented.
- 33% of male undergraduates belong to fraternities; 35% of female undergraduates belong to sororities.
- Fall 2007: 43.1% of undergraduates. Over 90% of freshmen live on campus.
- In terms of religious affiliation, the student body is the most diverse of any church-related school in the Southwest. In terms of numbers, Roman Catholics represent the largest group on campus, followed by Baptist, Methodist, Disciples of Christ, Presbyterian, and Episcopalians. TCU is related to the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), a Protestant denomination. Students are encouraged to pursue their own beliefs, rather than conform to a specific set of values. Religious organizations (Christian, Jewish and Muslim) are available for those who are interested, but the university does not mandate participation.
- Class size – average for undergraduates is 27; 67% of classes have 30 or fewer students. A typical freshman lecture course has 35 students.
- Over 108 Areas of Study in 7 Colleges and Schools

13%	AddRan College of Humanities & Social Science	20%	Neeley School of Business

- 6 year graduation rate is 63%
- 442 full-time faculty members; 90% hold terminal degrees, 58% are tenured, 40% are female, 12% are minority
- Fewer than 5% of classes are taught by graduate students.
- Most faculty have an open-door policy.
- An endowment in excess of $1 billion places TCU among the top universities, public or private, in the U.S.
- Tuition increased by 8% over the previous academic year
- 2007-2008 average cost of attending TCU is approximately $33,918 per year ($24,868 tuition and fees, plus room and board, insurance, books and miscellaneous living expenses).

TCU MISSION STATEMENT

To educate individuals to think and act as ethical leaders and responsible citizens in the global community.

TCU TRIVIA

- The horned frog is technically a lizard; its common name is the "horny toad."
- Frog Fountain: Placed on campus in 1969, each pad represents a class (Shortest=Freshman-Tallest=Senior).
- Addison and Randolph Clark established TCU in 1873. Original location was Thorp Spring, TX, approximately 50 miles SW from Ft. Worth. The campus moved to Waco in 1895 and eventually to Ft. Worth in 1910. The first classes were held downtown until the campus buildings (Reed Hall & Jarvis Hall) were completed in 1911.
- The original name of the college was Add-Ran Male and Female College, the 1st coeducational institution in the Southwest. It became "Texas Christian University" in 1902.
- The first cornerstone on the Ft. Worth campus can be found on the northeast corner of Reed Hall. Reed Hall was the original administration building until Sadler Hall was built in 1960.
- Schools of Medicine and Law were on the TCU campus during the decade of 1910-1919.
- The adoptions of the mascot came in 1897 and the school colors in 1896. Purple represents "royalty" and white a "clean game." The 1st football team was organized in 1896.
- The Worth Hills area of campus was acquired in 1963. Previously, it had served as a golf course.
- The Horned Frog sculpture was commissioned by the 1984 House of Representatives. It was styled and cast in metal by artist Seppo Aarnos. It has become one of the TCU's favorite landmarks.
- Frog Camp began in 1994 with approximately 110 campers and 1 camp in Waco. Frog Camp 2005 offered 9 camps at 4 different sites, and served approximately 1100 freshmen.
- A generous donation from an alumna, specifically for providing blooming flowers throughout the year, provides for the flower beds.

STORY BOARD

Mary Coutts Burnett

Born in 1856, she married wealthy cattleman S. Burk Burnett. By 1920, the relationship between husband and wife had grown tense and Mrs. Burnett expressed fears that her husband was trying to kill her. Burnett claimed in court that his wife was suffering from "hallucinations" and won a sanity judgment against her and had her committed to a limited asylum in a private home, in Weatherford, where she was virtually kept prisoner until she was released on the day of her husband's death in 1923. Following her release, Mary worked to obtain her "widow's half" – Texas being a community property state – of the Burnett estate.

In December of 1923, she surprised and shocked TCU by informing the University it would receive nearly her entire estate in trust – something over $3 million (equivalent to about $64 million in 2001 dollars). Before this moment, Mrs. Burnett had no known ties with or interest in the University. One story has it that Burk Burnett, a notoriously rough-edged character, had plainly expressed that no church or school would ever get any of his money so that Mary's gesture may have been one of defiance towards her late husband. Though she did not live to see it fully completed, she was driven past the Library building in 1924 during construction.

Plane clips Reed Hall

Reed Hall survived an airplane collision at its northeast parapet. The young pilot, who was buzzing his girlfriend in Jarvis hall, was thrown from the single-engine plane and landed unhurt on the honeysuckle arbor below.

"Old White Cawlie Dawg"

In the early 1950s, an old stray dog was adopted by the student populace and clandestinely allowed to sleep in the basement student lounge, in Reed Hall. So highly regarded was the "Old White Cawlie Dawg" that he won every student election for several years as a write-in candidate.
